

For Thanksgiving

Tallahassee, Sept. 12.—Governor Coxe said today he will designate Nov. 30 Thanksgiving Day in Florida.

He sent a telegram today to Halle Cohen, president of a Jacksonville department store, saying "It is my intention to proclaim Thanksgiving Day the last Thursday in November as has been the custom in Florida for many years."

1,000 Deer Slaughtered In Collier County As State Carries Out Tick Killing Plan

Officials Say Re-Stocking Will Tick-Free Deer Next Year

Close by the scene of deer slaughter, the Port Myers News Press came out with a story yesterday that will be of interest to every hunter in the Lake Okechobee region. The interesting story tells of progress being made in Collier county in the deer slaughter campaign. About 1,000 deer have been slaughtered so far according to reports used in the story. In order that Glades hunters may familiarize themselves with the going-on down in Collier county we are reproducing the story from the Port Myers News Press. It follows in full:

Sharp-eyed hunters, some hunting for fun, others for meat and still others for pay, have killed more than 1,000 deer in the vast Collier county breeding ground since the 1939 legislature authorized extermination of Florida's favorite game animal on the theory that such slaughter will help eradicate cattle fever ticks. The 1,000 deer toll was announced by Dr. J. V. Knapp, director of the state livestock sanitary board, but local woodmen are of the opinion that probably twice that number of deer, bucks and fawns have been shot down.

Sheriff Bob King, enthusiastic woodman, said yesterday that his camp had accounted for more than 60 deer. He said some hunters had claimed something as many as 50 deer. The number killed is supposed to be reported and hides checked in with livestock board the animals and destroy them. Dr. Knapp estimated about 750 deer were killed in the three counties.

"The campaign has been highly successful," he said. "We've finished down there now, and Glades and Highlands counties will be declared tick-free by Dec. 1. Orange county will be free next year."

Re-stocking with tick-free deer obtained from other breeding grounds will be started next year, Dr. Knapp said. Sportmen protested vigorously the "paid hunt" plan but courts upheld authority of the livestock sanitary board to destroy the deer in its tick eradication drive. When the 1939 legislature authorized the deer slaughter in the 200,000-acre Collier county game preserve, it directed that sportmen hunters should be allowed to participate. The hunt started July 1. Persons were required to obtain a state hunting license, which cost $5.50, plus a special Collier county deer license, also costing $5.50. About 700 licenses were issued.

"Our reports indicate that about 1,000 deer have been killed," Dr. Knapp said. "About 50 per cent were killed by sportmen. Our paid inspectors engaged in the hunt, too, but they handled over to the unsuccessful sportmen the deer that they killed."

The tick soon dies of starvation, experts declare, if it cannot attach itself to some animal. The fever tick does not feed on rabbits, and small game. In cattle it causes severe loss of weight and death by sapping blood and producing fever conditions. Areas where tick infestation exists are quarantined and livestock cannot be shipped out except after dipping treatment and follow-up inspection to show that the animals do not bear ticks.

New President For Power Company

Miami, Sept. 15.—McGregor Smith was elected president and general manager of the Florida Power & Light Co., today.

Smith succeeded Bryan C. Hanks, who resigned to organize with William Preston a law firm that will handle the power company's legal affairs.

The new president joined the company as vice president and general manager after resigning the presidency of the Louisiana Power & Light Co. He is 40 years old and an engineering graduate of the University of Tennessee.

Hanks was elected a director with Smith, H. E. Simpson, who was re-elected secretary-treasurer, J. H. White, general superintendent, and Ralph Y. Pool, head of the company's fire department.

SECOND PUMP ARRIVES

The South Shore Drainage District has received a second pump for installation at the Observation Point culvert site. Couch Manufacturing company of Grant, Fla., is installing a pump which will be serviced by a stationary engine. The capacity of the pump will be more than doubled with this new pump in action.

Rickshaw men of Kobe, Japan, have been boosting rates, and the city officials have decreed that they must stick to the original schedule or face a fine.

Panoramic View Of The New York Fair

(By T. J. Brown)

I went to the New York World's Fair. As a matter of course I made a bee line for the Florida exhibit, which is situated on the state exhibit. No unbiased person can say that any other state exhibit is so well planned as the Florida National Exhibit. It occupies 120,000 square feet of space. The ground was donated to the Florida National Exhibit by the state of Florida. It faces a beautiful lake opposite the amusement center. It is the only exhibit with a court of palms and a monumental tree. Thousands of trees, plants and palms decorate the grounds and

Some have criticized its location. It is the only state exhibit which the houses stop and pass. It is the only state exhibit which can be reached by bus from any part of the fair grounds for 10 cents. The first thing one sees as he enters the front of the building is a display of 144 different ways in which oranges pour from a conveyor; the oranges are peeled, sliced and served right over the counter. The exhibit is the finest orange exhibit ever started. This was counter to the view of the exhibit. It is the only exhibit of the New York world on exhibition. This exhibit has a capacity of 10,000 people. The main exhibit hall is carpeted with a sky blue background and fleecy clouds are continually floating overhead and sunrise or sunset alternates with sunset at the west at regular intervals.

Booths line the walkway, which has three elevators permitting three platforms of sightseers. Three booths depict various industrial and landscape scenes. In the state by colored dioramas. At the end of the hall is an immense animated diorama of the largest ever made depicting the citrus industry in all its phases. Tropic of Florida, unusual products of mine and factory are all there at intervals along the walkway.

Space will not permit details of the many things shown. The architectural design is the most striking of all the state exhibits at the Fair grounds. It is built of native materials such as Florida pine, cypress, rock, cement, ornamental coquina finish, etc. A beautiful tower, reminiscent of Spanish cathedrals, contains the world's largest carillon, which rings out over the fair grounds, days and evenings. It is played automatically with the exact touch of the individual player.

All who can should visit the fair and all who visit the fair should visit the Florida exhibit. All honor is due Messrs. Earl Beavers and Edward Bell whose initiative and untiring energy have made this exhibit possible. The World's Fair as a whole is stupendous. When fair experts invest $155,000,000 in bringing together the last word on the achievements of man it is worth anyone's time to see it. He who cannot appreciate the best of all man has done with a glimpse of the future is short on perception. It is inspiring to see and study the masterpieces of the genius of man. One cannot but hope for the future when such evidence is set forth of the capacity for mastering the forces of nature and appropriating them to the use, comfort and culture of mankind.

The foreign exhibits are worthwhile. Russia spent over $6,000,000 on her grounds, buildings and furnishings. England, Italy, France, Greece, Roumania, Portugal, Turkey, Japan, Canada, Palestine, Cuba and Sweden all have exhibits worth seeing. The federal building is a pretentious edifice and offers themes for study.

Last but not least are the exhibits of corporations. General Motors centers its exhibits on the theme of "The World of Tomorrow." The lecture delivered in the auditorium of this building is worth a trip to New York to the student of science and the future of humanity. We cannot dwell on the trip on the moving sound show which is a cross-section of America as it is visualized to be by 1960. This "Futurama" covers 35,728 square feet.

Ford has an educational exhibit, much of which is devoted to making the visitor's eyes and ears the ohlooker's eyes and ears in an announcer explaining the process. Chrysler exemplifies the evolution of means of transportation, the ages—an impressive message.

I can only mention a few outstanding exhibits of big concern. Firestone, National Cash Register, United States Steel, Westinghouse, R.C.A., Ford, General Motors, Pontiac, Glass Company, General Electric, Music and Art.

better class, most of it clever and clean. The quickest and cheapest way to learn of the active dynamism in which we live is to visit the fair.

New York City itself is indeed worth the trip to see. I have only to mention Rockefeller Center, Radio City, Metropolitan Museum of Natural History, Riverside Drive, Wall Street, Trinity Church, Cathedral, Chinatown, the Empire State Building, and the Statue of Liberty. I have only to mention Queens, New York and Manhattan.

There is but one New York City. No other city has buildings 800 ft. high. No other has the financial power and no other has the throbbing world of commerce. Go and see.

Punta Gorda had a big day last week when fisherman Ashley D. Lids, from the Lemon bay section landed a whale and succeeded in towing him ashore, off Punta Gorda beach, still alive. Steve J. Springer, zoologist with the Bass Laboratory, said the specimen was a sperm whale, an ancient, warmer seas. The whale measured 11 feet 4 inches in length. The skeleton was sent to Chicago where it will be exhibited in a museum.

Weather Bureau Gives 24-Hour Service

A more extensive system of preparation has been worked out by the United States Weather Bureau whereby they can gain information and disseminate complete warnings about approaching cyclones and hurricanes.

Bureau chief F. W. Reichelderfer, says the hurricane warning service is based on observations twice daily from over 80 stations in the West Indies and the Caribbean and two to four times daily from vessels in the Gulf of Mexico, Caribbean, and West Indian waters.

Whenever indications show a hurricane forming, special observations are made at two to three hour intervals by ships and stations in that area and relayed to the four forecast centers, Jacksonville, Washington, New Orleans and San Juan.

This routine enables the bureau thus to gain information as to the intensity and location long before it enters American waters or approaches the coast. Warnings are issued every six hours until the storm reaches the coast line, at which time warnings are issued hourly.

Twenty-four hour service is maintained at all times. Direct teletype connections are being made for the larger population centers.
